WAVE OF SYMPATHY.

It Comes to Miss Pollard in the Celebrated Trial.

A GUILTY MOTHER'S SACRIFICES.

She Put Her Children Away from Her at the Command of the Man She Loved. Mr. Breckinridge's Lawyers Admit the Secret Marriage with Mrs. Wing.

WASHINGTON, March 21. — When the shrill voice of the bailiff cried adjournment in the bare old circuit court yesterday afternoon the veiled face of Madeline Pollard was buried in her arms upon the rough board top of the witness box, behind which she had sat for three days. The only sound which had broken such a silence as seldom falls on a court room was a sobbing that seemed to come from her inmost heart Three jurors were fumbling in an uncertain way with their handkerchiefs, the judge was staring toward the ceiling abstractedly. Even the lawyer whose cross-examination had led up to this passage wore a look of unwonted gravity on his fatherly benevolent face with something remarkably like moisture about his eyes If there was a man among the curious hundred in the court room unmoved he was unconspicuous in the majority of sympathetic faces Madeline Pollard had been telling the most tragic episode of her unhappy life.

"A woman can't do more than that for a man, more than give up her child for him," she had said. "I laid my baby in its coffin because it needed the mother's care I could not give it because he made me put it away from myself. I never let him see me cry over it, because—"

The sentence was unfinished, and no more questions were asked. The men trooped from the court room awed from their customary charms of speculation and criticism

All day she had retained her composure up to this close, telling her story with such remarkable clearness of language, such a perception of the strong light which certain phases would throw upon her case that gentlemen experienced at the bar were constrained to comment that she was either telling the truth or was the most consummate actress who had ever come under their observation.

The trial reached its climax early in the afternoon, when Judge Jere Wilson, facing Major Butterworth, had thrust at him direct the question whether his client admitted the secret marriage to Mrs Wing in New York, and had, after a fiery passage at arms, received an affirmative answer From that crucial point the testimony of the plaintiff regarding the turbulent days of pistols and promises following the secret marriage on the 20th of April abounded in the most sensational incidents of the entire story.

From the questions prompted in part by the Kentuckian it developed that following that marriage, on the 20th of April, Colonel Breckinridge had stopped at the Hoffman House with Miss Pollard registered as his daughter; that she had threatened to shoot him there, and he renewed his promise of marriage that she had taken him from the presence of his wife in Washington to the office of the chief of police, where he had again promised to marry her

The plaintiff's attorneys raised the contention that the secret marriage constituted the breach of promise on which the suit was based, and that all following events were irrelevant and to be excluded from consideration, but the point was overruled Most of the day up to the final interesting hour had been consumed in reading the letters of Miss Pollard to James Rhodes, calling upon him for money, and although interesting points were raised the subject had been comparatively lifeless

In her testimony Miss Pollard asserted with great earnestness that the letters sent by her to Rhodes which were introduced in evidence had been dictated by Mr Breckinridge, the idea being to conceal the relations existing between himself and Miss Pollard. She was a passive party to the arrangement because of her desire to shield Mr Breckinridge To a reference to her mother as "the agency of deception" in the Rhodes correspondence Miss Pollard objected "Poor dear mamma," she said "should not be accused of that"

Another question asked the plaintiff by Mr Butterworth was "Miss Pollard, you said yesterday that your relations with the defendant continued after his marriage"

"After the secret marriage"

"Did you have any suspicions about that marriage"

"No, but I knew he had been with Mrs. Wing in New York, and I asked him about it He answered by telling me there was nothing between them, and then he maligned her. He spoke of her in language I cannot repeat, and that it would be hard for any one to believe; and that she was engaged to be married to Lieutenant Chamberlain, of the army, and this was all after his secret marriage"

"Did you believe there was nothing between Colonel Breckinridge and Mrs Wing?"

"He told me that she was a very worldly woman, and I certainly became suspicious that he should spend twelve days with a worldly woman"

"Miss Pollard, did not you and Colonel Breckinridge have some scenes about this time"

"Oh, yes," she cried scornfully, "life with that man couldn't be all happiness to every lady"

In answer to further questions Miss Pollard said she had never had any ambition to become an actress as "only pretty women go on the stage. A plain woman would have no chance there." Her recital of the visit to Major Moore, Washington's chief of police, varied slightly from Major Moore's account of the affair Speaking of a letter in which Mr Breckinridge had written a solemn pledge of marriage, she was interrupted by Mr. Butterworth asking: "Have you that letter?"

Miss Pollard raised her arm impressively while every man in the court leaned forward to catch her reply. "He took it away from me," she said, "on the 17th of May with the vilest, vilest lie"

After the letter was written, and before the 17th of May, Miss Pollard continued, Colonel Breckinridge had sent her flowers, had frequently talked to her of their future married life together

IN SENATE AND HOUSE

The Tariff Bill Fairly Launched in the Upper House.

WASHINGTON, March 21 —The tariff bill was yesterday fairly launched on its way in the senate. Mr Voorhees, the chairman of the finance committee, reporting it to the senate and giving notice that on April 2 he would move to take it up for consideration The rest of the day was taken up by Senator George, of Mississippi, in a discussion of the legal aspects of the Hawaiian question, defending the action of the president. Several unimportant bills were passed in the afternoon, and after a brief executive session the senate adjourned.

The sundry civil appropriation bill was passed by the house without division The amendment to the appropriation for the general land office amending the provision to the act of 1891 repealing the timber culture and pre-emption acts, which was adopted in the committee at the suggestion of Mr Holman, and which was bitterly opposed by the western members, was defeated in the house The clauses which sought to require an accounting by the disbursing officers of soldiers' homes to the treasury department and annual reports by the boards to the secretary of war fell under Mr Black's point of order. The bill, as passed, carries $217,000 more than it did as reported from the committee on appropriations. The four appropriation bills passed by the house (District of Columbia, pension, fortification and sundry civil) carry a net reduction of $24,834,958 as compared with the same bills for the current fiscal year. After the disposal of the sundry civil bill the O'Neill-Joy contested election case was called up, but the Republicans raised the question of consideration against it, and then declined to vote Their purpose is to force the Democrats to produce their own quorum to unseat Republican members The roll call showed but 154 Democratic members present, and a resolution was adopted revoking leaves of absence, after which the house adjourned over until tomorrow.

Our Growing Navy.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21 —There are three government ships now undergoing the finishing process at Cramps shipyard, which the company hope to turn over to the navy department by the 1st of October. These are the battleships Indiana and Massachusetts and the fast protected cruiser Minneapolis, the latter being a sister ship of the peerless Columbia Almost everybody connected with the firm believes that the Minneapolis will prove a world beater, and that she will exceed the Columbia's unprecedented record of 22 8-10 knots by more than a knot. The big battleships Iowa and Brooklyn will not be launched until late in the fall When these are completed the firm will have no more government work in its yard

Prendergast Doesn't Want a Priest.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Assassin Prendergast doesn't want a spiritual advisor yet He said yesterday in a growling way when Rev. Father Dose and another priest called to see him in jail "I don't care whether I get a supersedeas or not There's no justice in this world, anyway When I want priests I'll send for them." "Buff" Higgins, Prendergast's cell mate, who is also sentenced to hang on Friday was glad to see the clergymen, and greeted them warmly "If the supersedeas does not come today," he said, "I may as well prepare to push clouds on Friday."

Probably Fatal Fire in New York.

NEW YORK, March 21 —Fire broke out at midnight in the six story tenement 22 Hubert street, occupied by forty-five families, consisting of 230 persons The fire was caused by the upsetting of a kerosene lamp in the apartments of John Malloy Many of the tenants were compelled to jump from the windows The following received serious burns or were otherwise injured Mary Brown, aged 6, James Kating, aged 65, James Finton and James Fitzgerald. The police are searching for bodies, as it is believed some of the tenants perished

Senator Colquitt Seriously Ill.

WASHINGTON, March 21 —Senator Colquitt, of Georgia, is seriously ill at his residence on A street S E The senator, who was stricken with paralysis two years ago has suffered for several weeks past from a throat trouble, and one of the muscles of that organ is paralyzed, which makes it impossible to swallow, except with great difficulty All the members of the senator's family are at his bedside with the exception of one daughter, and she has been telegraphed for Hancock Refused Recognition.

TRENTON, March 21 —Controller-elect Hancock who bases his claim to the position on the fact that he was elected by the Republican members of the house of assembly in joint meeting with the Republicans who were elected senators last fall, called upon Governor Werts and asked to have his bond approved. Governor Werts refused to recognize Mr Hancock as the comptroller The terms of State Treasurer Grey and State Comptroller Heppenheimer have expired

From an experience of several years he knows whereof he speaks. Mr. Chas. C. Jack, Kansas City, Mo.' says: "We have used Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup for several years, and find it to be as good as represented to the public. We recommend it as a sure cure for a bad cough or cold. We keep a bottle of it in our house all the time for fear of a cold, which a person may catch at any time.

METROPOLIS MYSTERIES

Two Tragedies That Are Puzzling the Police Authorities.

WAS MISS FULLER MURDERED?

The Important Story Told by a Nassau Street Bartender—The Revolting Murder of Little Susie Martin, Whose Dismembered Body Was Found in a Cellar.

NEW YORK, March 21.—The development of the day in the shooting of Miss Martha J Fuller, the typewriter, shot in Mullin's law office on Saturday, was the result of the second autopsy It showed that she was shot in the right side of the head, not the left, as formerly reported. In several other directions skilled and patient investigation is gradually dissipating the fog of mystery with which the shooting has been surrounded, and the more clear it becomes the less reason there seems to be to consider it at all a suicide.

Editor Kernan, who rushed to the room after the tragedy, is confident that there was no revolver by the side of the body when he picked the dying woman up. It was not until he had gone for a policeman that the revolver appeared. Lawyer J. F. Riley agrees with him Lawyer Riley heard Magee, the managing clerk, reproving the boy Brannigan for having removed the revolver from beside the body, but neither he nor Kernan saw it there, and there was any amount of daylight in the room

What seems to be an important link in the chain of facts associated with Miss Fuller's death came to light for the first time last night in an interview with Henry C. Vett, bartender in Timothy Flynn's billiard rooms, 117 Nassau street, on the opposite side of the street to the Nassau chambers, where Miss Fuller met her death.

Vett said: Shortly after 5 o'clock on Saturday evening a man about 27 or 28 years old, of medium height, wearing a derby hat, and who had a small short cropped black mustache, suddenly rushed into the saloon He was in an exceedingly excited state, and hurriedly called for a glass of whisky, saying Make it a big one. There is a young lady sick across the street

"I gave him the whisky He picked up the glass placed his hand over the top of it, and rushed out again without paying for it. I am confident that there was no ambulance in sight when the man ran into the saloon. He did not return for at least an hour afterward He then came in and brought back the empty glass, and said 'That girl is dead, she was shot' I know the man perfectly well by sight and have seen him in and out here frequently, though I have never known his name.

"When the man who took the whisky over the way in front back the empty glass he was accompanied by a friend I think that the ambulance had then been there and gone away"

The story told by Vett suggests the idea that some one knew of Miss Fuller's condition before an ambulance call was sent out, and had time to run for the whisky before any alarm was raised

Vett said he could easily identify the two men who came into the saloon with the empty glass

THE MURDER OF SUSIE MARTIN.

The Body Dismembered and Boiled to Prevent Identification.

NEW YORK, March 21 —The trunk of the child that was found headless and without arms and legs in the cellar of the tenement house 317 West Thirty ninth street has been positively identified by Mr and Mrs. John Martin, of 636 Eleventh avenue, as the body of their 11-year-old daughter Susie who disappeared mysteriously on the afternoon of Thursday, March 8

A more complete and careful examination of the body confirmed the fact that it was sawed and hacked to pieces by some one other than a medical student, and that it was afterwards boiled, probably to hide the evidences of the crime The most commonly accepted theory is that the child strayed from home, and was enticed into a resort by some of the dock laborers who abound in that vicinity.

Charged with Creating Illegal Voters.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21 —James W. Shinn, of Media, a clerk in the Chester county prothonotary's office, was before Magistrate Pole, of this city, charged with issuing fraudulent naturalization papers to residents of this city. Shinn was held for a further hearing

A lady accords to Salvation Oil the first place for cure of rheumatism. Mrs. W. F. Mathews, 417 Church St., Lynchburg, Va., recently wrote: "My little girl's limb was drawn terribly from rheumatism, but after only two applications of the Oil, she ran about as usual. It is the greatest Oil in the world I believe for rheumatism."

DRIVING OUT ITALIANS

Altoona's Unemployed Fight Against Cheap Railroad Labor.

ALTOONA, Pa., March 21 —A mob of 300 men and boys went out to the edge of the city, where seventy five Italian laborers were at work, and with sticks, stones and pistols drove them into the woods One of the victims was severely wounded in the neck by a pistol bullet, another was so badly beaten that he may die, and several others were seriously hurt The men who were attacked were brought here by a Philadelphia contractor and put to work on the new electric railway to be built from this city to Bellwood The rate of wages agreed upon was seventy-five cents a day

Local laborers to the number of fifty or more waited upon the contractor and told him if he did not discharge the Italians there would be trouble He declined to do so, hence the riot After driving the workmen away from the work the rioters drove them to Bellwood, nine miles away, having first set fire to the shanties in which the Italians have been housed. Returning to this city they repaired to the Italian quarter and notified the residents of that portion of the city that they must leave at once. A large number of them have obeyed the order, and more are going

Mayor Hoover and Sheriff Hughes called the mob together and begged them not to go any further in the matter, and promises were made that all the Italians would be discharged, and none but resident laborers be employed on the road. This had the effect of quieting them somewhat, but there is still a very ugly feeling among them

Big Railroad Consolidation.

ST LOUIS March 21 —It is learned here from a high railroad source that one of the most gigantic consolidations of railroad interests within the past decade is on tapis It is nothing smaller than the invasion of Gould territory by the Vanderbilts and the Standard Oil people, who now control the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad The scheme is the union of the Chesapeake and Ohio, Vanderbilt property, with the Big Four line, another Vanderbilt property, which will be used to St Louis and from St Louis to Galveston, Tex., the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, a Standard Oil property. This would give the Vanderbilts a line direct from Galveston, Tex., through to New York

Indignant Railroaders.

BRAZIL, Ind., March 21.—The circular received by the employes of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad has created much indignation here. Three weeks ago the company polled the road to learn if the train men would accept a reduction, and the result was an almost unanimous vote against it Now the company announces a 10 per cent cut Heretofore the employes have met and arranged the scale annually This year the company arranged the scale and told the men they must either his them acceptance by April 5, or consider themselves discharged

A Call for Protection.

PITTSBURG, March 21 —The officials of the Monongahela Iron and Steel company, at Hays Station near here, have applied to the sheriff for protection. Last week the puddlers quit work, owing to a dispute with the firm concerning a wage agreement The officials started a part of the plant. Since then the strikers have attacked and beaten a number of the non-unionists, and have interfered with them on their way to work. A number of arrests have been made, and deputies are now guarding the property.

General Booth Coming Over.

LONDON, March 21 —An appeal has been issued for the purpose of raising a fund of £25 000 in order to celebrate the jubilee of the Salvation Army In connection with this jubilee General Booth proposes to inaugurate a four months Salvation Army campaign in the United States next autumn, the operations to be conducted by the general in person The general also proposes an international Salvation Army congress in July and expeditions to Japan, Java and Demerara

Governor Rich Sustained.

LANSING, March 21.—The supreme court rendered a decision sustaining Governor Rich in removing Secretary of State Joachim, State Treasurer Hambitzer and Land Commissioner Berry for gross negligence in failing personally to canvass the returns of the amendment election of 1893 The governor has made these appointments Secretary of state, Washington Gardner, state treasurer, James Wilkinson, land commissioner, William A French

LOUIS KOSSUTH DEAD.

The Great Hungarian Liberator at Last Succumbs.

A REMARKABLY ACTIVE CAREER.

His Signal Services in the Abolition of Serfdom and the Feudal System—Died a Voluntary Exile from His Native Land, and in Straitened Circumstances.

TURIN, March 21 —Louis Kossuth died at 10:35 o'clock last night. His end was extremely painful. He showed signs of consciousness until the last. He expired in the arms of his son, and died pressing the hand of the Hungarian deputy, Karolyi. The members of his family and a few of his intimate friends stood around the bedside of the expiring patriot. The municipal authorities of this city have offered the family to allow the remains to be buried in the Pantheon here.

Lajos (or Louis) Kossuth, ex-governor of Hungary, was born April 21, 1802, at Monok, Zemplin, Hungary. His father was a small landowner, and belonged to the nobility.

When Kossuth was 27 years old he took his seat in the national diet of Presburg as representative of a magnate, being the agent of the Countess Szapary, and his action in publishing reports of the proceedings of this assembly led to their suppression and, eventually, to his prosecution for high treason He was sentenced to four years' imprisonment, but was liberated after having been in prison about a year and a half, under an act of amnesty

LOUIS KOSSUTH.

Kossuth, in 1841, became editor of The Hirlap, a newspaper published at Pesth, and his influence with his countrymen increased. In March, 1848, he entered Vienna with a deputation to urge the claims of his country upon the Austrian government and returned to Presburg as minister of finance Thanks to the internal reforms advocated by Kossuth, the last remains of the oppressive feudal system were swept away and the peasants were declared free, the country undertaking to indemnify the landlords

Eventually the Hungarian diet was dissolved and a new diet was summoned for July 2, and by this diet Kossuth was created governor of Hungary He held that post during the civil war of 1848-49, and after the Hungarians had been crushed by the aid of the Russians Kossuth was compelled to retire to Turkey, and reached Schumla with 5,000 men. Austria and Russia wanted Turkey to give up Kossuth and the rest of the refugees, but through the intervention of England and France the demand was refused, and the late sultan moved the refugees to Kuthia, in Asia Minor, where they remained prisoners until Aug 22, 1851, being treated with great humanity.

Kossuth left Kuthia on Sept. 1, 1851, and after being refused permission to travel through France he was hospitably received at Gibraltar and at Lisbon, reached Southampton on Oct 28, and sailed for the United States on Nov 21. Kossuth, who was warmly received in America, made a tour of the United States, agitating in favor of Hungary, and then returned to England, where he remained for some years, occupying himself with writing for newspapers and in delivering lectures against the house of Hapsburg

In November, 1861, Kossuth published in an Italian newspaper a long letter setting forth the situation in Hungary and urging the Italians to commence war against Austria, with the view of enabling the Hungarians to assert themselves against that power. In 1866, after the close of the war of that year he issued an inflammatory address to the Hungarians, advising them to reject the concessions offered by Emperor Francis Joseph.

Since April, 1875, Kossuth has been living in an unpretentious dwelling near Turin, and in November, 1879, he lost his rights as a Hungarian citizen, the chamber of deputies having adopted a bill declaring that any native of the country who voluntarily resided abroad for an uninterrupted period of ten years should lose his civil rights

For a number of years past Kossuth has been in straitened circumstances, persistently refusing pecuniary assistance and depending entirely upon the proceeds of his pen Numerous efforts have been made to bring about his restoration to citizenship and his eventual repatriation, but all these attempts have been unsuccessful, though it is believed this would have been accomplished after the Easter holidays.

Cures Sick

HIS SILENT BRIDE.

She Vowed Never to Speak to Him Again, but Married Him Just the Same.

About 18 months ago Miss Cartell was Miss Fannie Trembley, a beautiful young lady of 18 years, and Jerry Cartell was her favored suitor. But, as is generally the case with young lovers, a quarrel arose between them, and in the heat of passion Miss Fannie angrily bade her lover leave her presence and vowed by high heaven she would never speak to him again. The disconsolate lover took his departure, but as he fairly worshiped the girl he ardently set about to effect a reconciliation. At last in answer to a pitiful, pleading letter Miss Fannie relented and penned to him a loving, forgiving message.

Overjoyed at the happy termination of affairs, he hurried to the home of Miss Fannie and was received warmly and affectionately, but without a word of welcome. Taking a tablet and pencil from a desk, she began a written conversation as though she could not speak a word. She is very devout, a member of the Methodist church, and was firmly impressed with the idea that if she should break her rash vow God would punish her by striking her dumb, when she could speak to no one.

The courtship proceeded with pencil and paper for several months, and then they were joined together in the holy bonds of matrimony. During their married life of nearly a year Mrs. Cartell never spoke to her husband until some days ago.

Last Christmas Mr Cartell made his wife a present of a handsome and costly pair of vases. The other morning the husband was bringing in an armful of wood and struck one of the vases and knocked it to the floor, where it broke into a hundred pieces.

"Oh, Jerry, look what you have done!" cried Mrs. Cartell.

She was horribly shocked at speaking to her husband and believed that she had been stricken dumb. To ascertain the correctness of her belief she spoke to him again and was overjoyed to discover that her organs of speech had not been in the least impaired.

In the happiness of again hearing his wife speak to him Jerry folded her in his arms, wept tears of joy and thanked God for the breaking of the vase. Mr. and Mrs. Cartell feel as if a cloud had been lifted from their home, and there is not a happier couple today in Dyer county.—Trimble (Tenn.) Correspondent.

WANTS A COMFORTABLE COFFIN.

The Father of Congressman Brookshire Is Having One Made to Order.

A Crawfordsville (Ind.) correspondent says: "There is a man living nine miles south of this city who, though in the best of health, has given his orders for his coffin. His name is Drake Brookshire. He is the father of Hon. E. V. Brookshire, the Democratic congressman from this, the Eighth, district. Mr. Brookshire weighs 280 pounds, has always lived upon a farm, enjoyed the best of health, having never been sick a day in his life, and is now 67 years of age. The other day he came to town and went to an undertaking establishment and informed the proprietor that he wanted to purchase a coffin. The proprietor, after asking who was dead, was greatly astonished on being told that it was for the live man standing before him.

"Mr Brookshire, however, quieted him by saying that he did not intend to die until he had to, but that he wanted to die with the knowledge that there was a coffin already made for him in which he would have plenty of room. The undertaker did not seem to know just what to do, and Mr. Brookshire, seeing his embarrassment, laid down upon the floor and ordered his measurement taken. The coffin will be made of two inch oak, firmly bolted together, and will be 6 feet 6 inches long, 3 feet wide and 2½ feet deep. After the coffin is made Mr Brookshire will try it and see if it fits him. He also says that he desires to be taken to the graveyard in his farm wagon, drawn by his team of favorite mule."

Chicago's Bottle Craze.

A curious fancy in bric-a-brac has furnished one man the foundation of a modest fortune within the last year. He has a store on State street, near Fourteenth, and resolved to hunt his treasures to the purchase and sale of old bottles. Druggists and bakeshops were his principal customers, but now one may see his humble carriage at the door on almost any bright day, and he will tell you that the wealthy art people who delight to run to odd ornaments are regular visitors there. They buy odd shaped bottles and jugs of all sorts and pay handsomely for such treasures as old Dutch wares in blue or the quaint decorated bottles in which various liquors and mixtures are imported. Glazed jugs of fine brush and drinking mugs such as the Germans showed at Jackson park last summer have become almost a craze and bring three or four times their former value.—Chicago Record.

Married In Haste

While the town board meeting of West Indianapolis was in session a few months ago Justice of the Peace Allen, who was present, was summoned to perform a marriage ceremony. The contracting parties were Mr. John Perry and Miss Mary McGreevy. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride on Bridge street. When Mr. Allen entered the house he was informed that it was desired by both parties that the ceremony be a short one. Mr. Allen promptly tied the knot. Mr. Wynne, who had taken his watch from his pocket to note the time consumed in the ceremony, startled them all by announcing that the world's record had just been broken.

"You have tied it only 21 seconds in the ceremony.

THE BALLOON IN BATTLE.

How It Is Managed and Information Transmitted and Received.

Balloon and wagon have formed a junction and are ready to start with the troops. Away goes the wagon, with the balloon hanging on to its tail, while the attendant sappers on each side keep it steady. The train moves along at a good round pace, easily keeping up with or even passing the infantry, and makes for the particular spot at which it has been determined to commence balloon operations, which is usually on the top of a good high hill.

An ascent is an easy enough matter and is soon accomplished. The balloon is securely fixed to the end of the wire rope, and the two men who are to ascend take their places. At the word of command the men who have been holding down the car let go, and up shoots the balloon, unwinding the rope as it rises and allowed sometimes to ascend to a height of 1,000 feet. And suppose the officer receives instructions to move the position of the balloon, is it necessary to haul it down? Not a bit of it. A man is placed at the end of the wagon who carefully guides the connecting rope so that it cannot get entangled or run risk of being cut, and away goes the wagon, sometimes at a trot across fields and up and down hill, until the balloon itself is a long distance away from its original station. Next, suppose that it is necessary to lower the balloon. Is it needful to wind in all the wire rope that has been paid out from the reels? No such thing. The balloon is brought to earth in a much more expeditious manner.

A long, stout pole, in the middle of which is a pulley wheel, is laid across the rope. Half a dozen men seize the pole and run it along the rope, and their weight soon brings the balloon down to the ground. Passengers can then be exchanged, or any other operation can be carried on, and then the men run the pole back, and up shoots the balloon again many hundreds of feet into the air, without having been away from its exalted position more than a few minutes.

But it is not necessary to lower the balloon in this or any other way whenever it is required that messages should be exchanged between those below and those above. There are various contrivances for doing this. Sometimes, for instance, a wire is attached, through which messages can be sent to a telephone. Another plan is to send messages down the wire cable. A little wire hook is fastened around the cable, and the letter or paper, weighted with a small sandbag, is sent fluttering down. The human voice, it may also be added, can be heard both from a considerable height and depth, so that verbal communication is not difficult if there is no wind.—Good Words.

Sensitive Horses.

Harsh treatment, though it stop short of inflicting physical pain, keeps a nervous horse in a state of misery. On the other hand, it is perfectly true, as a besotted but intelligent stable keeper once observed to me, 'A kind word for a hoss is as good sometimes as a feed of oats.'

A single blow may be enough to spoil a racer. Daniel Lambert, founder of the Lambert branch of the Morgan family, was thought as a 3 year-old to be the fastest trotting stallion of his day. He was a very handsome, stylish, intelligent horse, and also extremely sensitive.

His driver, Dan Mace, though one of the best reinsmen in America, once made the mistake, through ill temper or bad judgment, of giving Daniel Lambert a severe cut with the whip, and that single blow put an end to his usefulness as a trotter. He became wild and ungovernable in harness and remained so for the rest of his life.

In dealing with a horse more than with most animals one ought to exercise patience, care and above all the power of sympathy so as to know if possible the real motive of his doing or refusing to do this or that. To acquire such knowledge and to act upon it when required is a large part of the ethics of housekeeping.—Youth's Companion.

Abrogating the Fees.

Mrs. Pigg, a very charming and vivacious widow, called recently on a legal friend of hers to consult him on a matter of interest to her.

"You know, sir," she said to him, "that when the late Mr. Pigg died he left me all his fortune, much to my satisfaction, of course, but he handicapped me with the name of Pigg, which I must say I don't like."

"Well," ventured the attorney "I presume a handsome woman can get especially complaisant and by being Mrs. Pigg."

"I should say not," she laughed. "Now, what I came to see you about was whether or not I must apply to the legislature to get it changed."

"Um—er," he hesitated as if wrestling with a great legal problem, "um—er—yes, but an easier way is to apply to a parson, and I'll pay all the expenses myself."

It was sudden, but a widow is never caught napping, and she appointed that evening for another consultation.—Detroit Free Press.

Royal German Dinners.

A characteristic of all dinners given to the court and military officials by the emperor and empress of Germany is that there is always provided a dish of sweetmeats, which holds as well pictures of the royal pair and their children, each bonbon having a likeness painted upon it. And when the hosts retire there is something approaching a rush among the dignified officers and functionaries for one of these much valued souvenirs to take home to equally eager wives and daughters.—New York Times.

In the Fashion.

Mrs. Jackson Parke—What in the world is keeping you up so late?

Mr. Jackson Parke—I am writing an article for the papers on "How I Killed My First Hog." These literary chaps, with their stories of how they wrote their first books, are not going to have the field all to themselves, not by a jugful.—Indianapolis Journal.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

DR. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—My whole system seems to have undergone a change—since taking "Pleasant Pellets." My nerves are wonderfully improved, and I no longer have attacks of "the blues." It is wonderful, the good the "Pellets" have done my liver complaint.

UP THE MIDLAND

Out Again But Sees Double—A Very Mean Man—One Man's Opinion of Dr. Darwood—The Spring Lumber Trade Is—Blue Stone Prospects—Acid Factory Charcoal—Held Butter for a Rise.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—Joseph Rue, of Rockland, whose horse ran away about Jan. 1st, throwing him out of the wagon and breaking his skull so that it had to be trephined, is now able to be about his work, but little the worse for the damage except that his eyesight is so changed that he sees all objects double and is compelled to keep one eye bandaged so as to help this defect. Mr. Rue and his family have had a hard winter of it and it is gratifying indeed, for his many friends to again see him about.

—The "Man Off Duty's" recital of some instances of mean men whose lost purses have been returned them, reminds me of an Up-Midland butcher, who, some years ago, lost a fat, well filled wallet that was picked up and returned to him by a poor but honest boy. Did the butcher give him half of it? Not much. He took the boy out to his slaughter house and made him a present of a beefhead, from which the tongue had been removed. It almost killed the lad to lug the beefhead home. This was meanness for you.

—The Rev. Dr. Darwood, when he took that young woman to task for dancing, fired a shot that was heard all around this part of the world. One Up Midland man, after he had read the reverend gentleman's tirade against the girl, remarked that after all he would "rather be in hell with her than in heaven with the dominie." If we could have a little more common sense in our pulpits there would be more common sense in the pews.

—The Delaware River lumber mar- is not brisk and prices are not what was to be expected with so light a run. Of course but few rafts have been got to market as yet and the run will be light the entire season. Not more than half the number of saw mills, that were in operation along the lower end of the river twenty years ago, are in running order now as the dealers find it preferable to g.. their bills filled by rail.

—The stone business opens up better than was expected of it. Builders are taking advantage of the overstocked labor market and are buying largely of flag and building stone and from present appearances prices will be better than last year or year before.

—If city people only knew the fuel value of the charcoal from our Up Midland acid factories they would use nothing else for cooking during the summer months. Charcoal burns quickly and gives out an intense heat, and is cheaper than hard coal for light, short time fires, as it need not cost more than ten cents a bushel in New York city. Those who use it once for summer fuel will always use it again.

—The smart, know-it-all farmer has again knocked the bottom out of the butter market by holding for higher prices. It was estimated that on March 1st there were at least one hundred tons of old butter in the hands of the farmers of Delaware county alone, that is offered for sale in New York to-day for fifteen cents a pound, when it could have been sold for twenty-five cents in November and December.

RUSTICUS.

THE NEVERSINK VALLEY RAILROAD.

The Road Likely to Be Built—The Right of Way Secured.

The prospects now are that the railroad up the valley of the Neversink from the Ontario and Western at South Fallsburgh, which has been projected for some time, will soon be built.

It seems that a year or more ago Drake & Stratton proposed to the people along the line of the projected road that they would build it if the right of way was secured and $10,000 subscribed. These conditions have been complied with, and work on the road is expected to be begun in the near future.

The road has been surveyed from South Fallsburgh to Williams's hotel at Neversink Flats, a distance of about twelve miles. The route is up the west bank of the river until a point near Misner's hotel, where a bridge will be built.

The proposed road runs through a fine farming country, which will supply many hundred cans of milk daily, and during the summer season will command a very large passenger business, the section through which it will run being filled with summer hotels and boarding houses.

Sale by the Ladies of Grace Church.

The Women's Auxiliary of Grace Church will hold a sale on Thursday, March 22nd, from 3 to 6 p. m., at the residence of Mr. Chas. Horton, on Roberts street. Home-made cake at reasonable prices. Good Friday buns and beautifully decorated Easter eggs will be offered for sale.

THE DOLIBER-GOODALE CO'S ANNUAL DINNER.

The annual dinner of the Doliber-Goodale Company, the proprietors of Mellin's Food, to their heads of departments and traveling men, was given on the 6th of December, 1893, at the Parker House, Boston.

In response to the special invitation from Mr. Doliber, the president of the company, all of the traveling men had turned from their different fields of labor, and had come together in Boston, the headquarters of the business, each to make a systematic and detailed report of his last year's work and to discuss with the home management the methods, plans and efforts for his coming year's work.

It was a most natural and happy home-coming, and seemed almost like a family gathering, as the freedom of discussion, the quick response to Mr. Doliber's request for suggestions, and the enthusiasm shown by all present, told of the cordial relation and perfect confidence existing between the travelers and the manager of the company.

At the dinner, Mr. Doliber, the president, had the head of the table; vice president, Mr. Cheney, the foot; Mr. Delano, the right, and Mr. Hazeltine the left center. Messrs. Cox, Snyder, Jones, C. M. Phelps, Robbins, Larrabee, Stone and Goodwin completed the circle. The appearance of the table was strikingly novel, with its pyramid of foliage and choicest cut flowers, of which Mr. Doliber is so fond, and the menu and service were all that for two generations have made "Parker's" famous.

After the merriment which always accompanies a good dinner, speeches were in order, and as the Mellin's food men are all good talkers and the dinner a success, there was no backwardness in coming forward to carry out this part of the programme.

Mr. Stone set the ball rolling with a toast to the president and the heads of the departments, which brought out hearty and appreciative responses first from Mr. Doliber, and following him the several members of his staff of assistants who are at the head of the different departments of the work in the home office; and every one of the traveling men, as he felt moved to speak, gave to the others his ideas of the work from his own personal point of view, each telling his belief and conviction as to the best ways to accomplish the results desired under the widely varying conditions prevailing in their different fields of effort.

The last hour was devoted to a wholly unexpected and successful demonstration of the latent musical ability of the party. Messrs. Delano, Stone and Larrabee "spelling" each other at the piano, and music and song held sway until, with rousing and heartfelt cheers for Mr. Doliber and for Mellin's Food, these earnest and loyal co-workers separated, strengthened in purpose, each with greater confidence and increased zeal, to take up his own work again with the determination to accomplish all, and more if possible, than the management had expected of him, as a natural return for the confidence and compliment shown him in thus meeting with his fellow workers and employer on common ground.

Perhaps one secret of the steady growth and increasing prosperity of the Mellin's Food business is to be discovered it this incident. Mr. Doliber's breadth of view, honesty of purpose and perfect sincerity which make him willing to listen to any and all suggestions that even the youngest and least experienced of his employes might offer, have no doubt kept the entire force of workers in intelligent harmony with those whose responsibility it is to direct them and in this way better and larger and more permanent results have been secured.

There is no position in commercial life, as business is done to-day, so hard to sustain successfully as that of "traveler," for the reason that it is possible for him to find himself so quickly "out of touch" with home people. He wants to carry out their ideas, and intends to do so, but too often confusion and misunderstanding arise from the care of the work of the traveling men having been given to an irresponsible correspondent who is personally impatient of any thing but routine work and is not interested in the ideas and suggestions of the men who, in their different field, are in reality the very pulse of the business.

No clearer and more unmistakable instance of Mr. Doliber's sagacity and sound business judgment can be asked for than the fact that to the work of, and correspondence, with the traveling men, he delegates the best thought and ripest experience among his associates in the management of the business.

WAYLAID BY RUFFIANS

Terrible Experience of a Young Actress in Jersey City.

JERSEY CITY, March 21.—Just as the curtain falls on the most atrocious attack on May Berrowcliff in this city, through that young woman leaving the place, comes news of another murderous assault of a similar character. This time the victim is a young actress, and the police vary the usual story by capturing the offenders. Word was sent to police headquarters that a woman was being murdered in a lot at the corner of York and Hudson streets. Officers were dispatched to the place, and in an unoccupied house, standing on the stoop, they saw a woman struggling to free herself from the grasp of a number of men. She was screaming and crying for help.

Three men succeeded in making their escape over a side fence, but the others, four in all, were put under arrest. The woman was Adeline Waters, a young actress playing with the McKee Rankin company. Her clothing was torn almost from her back, and she showed signs of having been frightfully abused. The men were arraigned before Justice O'Donnell, who held them for trial. The prisoners gave their names as Henry Fagan, John Connolly, Michael Klugenstiel and William Guir.

Miss Waters lies at the city hospital in a critical state from the shock, and it is feared she cannot recover. When the McKee Rankin combination was playing here a week ago she was taken sick in the railroad station, and had to be removed to Taylor's hotel, where she has since been under the care of Dr. J. J. Nivin. She had been taking morphine to allay her pains, and it is supposed that while delirious she left the hotel without the knowledge of the doctor, wandered away and fell into the hands of the men who assaulted her.

An Educational Controversy.

NEW HAVEN, March 21.—Papers were served on Dr. Jay Seaver, physical director of Yale university, and John C. Kebabian, a local importer of Turkish goods, in a suit brought by the president and fellows of Harvard college to recover $110 on a bond of $400 given by Dr. Seaver and Kebabian as a guarantee that the tuition and other bills of Sarkis Kebabian while a student at Harvard would be paid. The defense will charge the authorities at Harvard with having turned young Kebabian from Yale by offering him flattering inducements which were never realized. Furthermore, the claim will be made that the Harvard authorities, in a desire to outstrip Yale in the race for numerical supremacy, have indulged in this practice to rob Yale of her under graduates.

Rohl's Mysterious Death.

WILKESBARRE, March 21.—The coroner's inquest in the case of John Rohl, whose dead body, riddled with bullets, was found last Saturday morning in a field near Lewis Vitoski's boarding house, at Plains, was held yesterday. Vitoski and his wife are suspected of having some connection with the affair, and they were held for trial. A man named Jack Burke has been missing from his home in Plains since last Saturday, and Detective Whaley, who is working on the case, has a theory that he knows something about Rohl's mysterious death.

Killed by His Plantation Hands.

WHARTON, Tex., March 21.—H. C. Bouldin, a wealthy planter, reprimanded a number of negroes on his plantation for failing to do their work. Subsequently a mob of fifty negroes went to his house and shot him to death. Sixteen of the mob have been captured, and a race conflict may occur, as there is every indication that the Matagorda jail will be stormed and the assassins taken out and put to death.

Employers Fulfill Their Promise.

LAWRENCE, Mass., March 21.—Next Friday the old rate of wages at the Phillips and Kunhardt woolen mills will be restored. Some time ago the management notified their employes that a reduction of twenty-five cents in wages was made imperative by the condition of the market. The operatives accepted the reduction on the promise that wages should be restored as soon as possible.

His Body Cut in Two.

WESTMINSTER, Md., March 21.—Jabez A. Rush, a prominent and wealthy citizen of Carroll county, met with a terrible death yesterday. While sitting on a log through which a circular saw was passing his body was literally cut asunder, the two halves falling on either side of the saw. He was superintending the getting out of lumber for a new barn, and sat down on the log to make some calculations when his clothing was caught by the teeth of the saw.

The South Jersey Road Restrained.

WOODBINE, N. J., March 21.—That the railroad war is ended is now settled beyond all doubt. Supervisor Stubbs has served an injunction on the officials of the South Jersey road, restraining them from entering upon or proceeding with the construction of any railroad tracks or crossings on lands of the West Jersey Railroad company near Woodbine or Cape May Court House.

A Well Known Turfman Dying.

LOUISVILLE, March 21.—Michael Keegan, the well known railroad contractor and turfman, is dying of cancer of the stomach at St. Joseph's infirmary. A surgical operation has been performed which may delay the end for a while.

GEORGE H. THOMPSON, C. MACARDELL, } EDITORS
J. F. ROBINSON, CITY EDITOR
A. E. NICKINSON, BUSINESS MANAGER

Now that supervisors, town clerks and commissioners of highways are elected for two years it would be common sense to so amend the law in regard to town elections as to give other town officials two year terms. It imposes on the towns a needless expense to hold town meetings annually for the election of minor town officers.

Trade reports show that for the past eight months, the balance of trade has been $218,000,000 in favor of this country. In spite of all this the country has been anything but prosperous and faith in the theory that a balance of trade and national prosperity are synonymous terms has been rudely shaken.

The Democrats of Rhode Island, yesterday, nominated David S. Baker for Governor. The platform congratulates the people of the State on the repeal of the silver purchase act and of the federal election law, and denies that the business depression is due to fear of the results of tariff reform. There is not a word in the platform in regard to President Cleveland or his administration.

The Democratic Congressional Committee has decided to open headquarters and to begin at once the work of the coming Congressional campaign. The committee expects to rely on tariff speeches and documents to convince the voters of the country that it is for their interest to continue the Democratic party in power. If the committee will first convince the Democrats in the Senate that duty to country and party demands prompt action on the tariff and a fulfillment of Democratic pledges to revise the tariff in the interest of the people and not of protected monopolists, its efforts to convince the people that the Democratic party is fit to be trusted with another lease of power may perhaps succeed.

ONLY $300,000 FOR THE CANALS.

By United Press

ALBANY, March 21.—The bill appropriating $1,000,000, for improving the canals came up as a special order, this morning. An amendment was offered by Mr. Pearson reducing the appropriation to $300,000, which was adopted and the bill was passed unanimously.

A "Smoker at the Armory.

For the relief and cure of a cold in the head there is more potency in Ely's Cream Balm than in anything else yet discovered or possible to prescribe. This preparation has for years past been in constant use, and its success is a record of cures in the head, catarrh and throat. Over the mouth of those exposed to Cold, the contagion of diphtheria, Cream Balm prevents infection. Its use at the first sneeze will relieve the most violent cold in the head. Catarrh, hay fever and all inflammations have proved of no avail.

IN FAVOR OF THE REPUBLICANS

New Jersey's Supreme Court Decides Against the Democrats in the Senate Case.

By United Press.

TRENTON, N. J., March 21—The Supreme Court chambers were thronged, this morning, to hear the court's decision in the Senatorial case. Chief Justice Beasley read the opinion.

The first point in the controversy, whether the court had jurisdiction in the case, was decided in the affirmative.

The court further holds in its decision that the Senate was not a continuous body and says that the contention that the minority could rule was antagonistic to the theory of popular government. The court therefore finds that the holdover Senators did not have the power to pass on the credentials of new Senators and decides in favor of the Republican Senate.

The Democrats have almost entirely capitulated. Gov. Werts gave State Comptroller-elect Hancock and State-Treasurer-elect Swain their commissions as soon as the decision was rendered, and they are already in possession of their offices. The Democratic members of the Senate will probably join their Republican colleagues, to-morrow. The Governor has filed all bills passed by the Legislature and they are now laws.

NEWTON WANTS TO PLEAD GUILTY.

Will Turn State's Evidence if Let Off Easily.

By United Press.

BROOKLYN, March 21.—Before the trial of Jamieson, the Gravesend constable, was resumed, this morning, Jere Wernberg, counsel for the State, said Richard V. B. Newton had been suing for clemency on condition that he plead guilty to all the four indictments against him. The lawyer intimated that the prosecution would be willing to let Newton off easy for valuable information he can give them. If Newton pleads guilty it is probable others will follow suit.

Witnesses in the Jameson trial, this morning, told nothing new.

THE POLLARD-BRECKINRIDGE CASE

Miss Pollard's Cross-Examination Ended and Her Case Closed.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Miss Pollard was early in court, this morning. Court had been called to order when Breckinridge and his son entered.

Miss Pollard resumed the stand and said she didn't have the contract by which she agreed to repay Rodes the money advanced for her education. Rodes, she added, paid about $2,500, which she was never able to pay back. Witness said she had adopted the name of Breckinridge at defendant's suggestion. After an insignificant question, Col. Butterworth created surprise by saying, "That's all, Miss Pollard!"

Mr. Carlisle for the plaintiff then caused another surprise by saying that plaintiff rested her case. Miss Pollard left the court at once.

Counsel for the defense at this requested and were given permission to withdraw for consultation.

THE MATTIE FULLER MYSTERY.

Now Believed That She May Have Committed Suicide.

By United Press.

NEW YORK, March 21.—The death of Mattie Fuller is as much a mystery as ever. The suspicions against Magee have been weakened by the discovery made at the second autopsy that the bullet entered Miss Fuller's head on the right side, thus showing that it was not improbable that she killed herself by using her right hand, which was unloved, in handling the revolver. The remains were taken to Walton, N. Y., to day, for burial.

"BAT" SHEA IN JAIL FOR THE ROSS MURDER.

By United Press

TROY, March 21—The Coroner's jury in the case of Robert Ross rendered a verdict, to day, that he came to his death by a shot from a revolver in the hands of Bartholomew Shea and Shea was committed to jail on a charge of murder in the first degree.

SENATOR AND MRS. PEFFER.

They Are Always Together, and the Good Lady Is Her Husband's Counselor.

The relations between Senator Peffer and his wife are quite touching. They are always together, and wherever Mr. Peffer is Mrs. Peffer can usually be found near by. They walk together in the morning from their boarding house to the capitol, and when he has nothing else to do they work in his committee room, she acting as his private secretary. When he has engagements elsewhere, she remains there, answering his letters and sending out his documents. When the senate is called to order, she goes into the gallery and remains until adjournment, when she walks home with him. When luncheon comes, they go down to the restaurant together and eat baked apples and cream.

When he has to visit the pension office or the postoffice department or other offices in the city, she is always with him and usually waits outside of the door until he comes. He is tall and ungainly, with high cheek bones and dark goggles and long whiskers, and an ulster on which the nap in places has been worn off. She is a bright looking little woman nimble and observing, but plainly dressed in a bonnet and garments which she evidently made herself. Mrs. Peffer is a woman of considerable intellectual force. She understands political affairs quite as thoroughly as her husband and is a safe counselor.—Washington Letter.

Astor Finds It Expensive.

Mr. Astor is finding it fully as expensive to indulge in the luxury of publishing a good newspaper as to maintain the finest steam yacht. The financial result of his first year's experience as proprietor of The Pall Mall Gazette, Budget and Magazine was recently put before him. A friend of Mr. Astor said that the balance on the wrong side of the account amounted to about $200,000. When he had examined the balance sheet a few minutes, it is said that Mr Astor remarked, "If the balance against us next year exceeds $50,000, I shall think there is bad management somewhere.

Shakespeare Foretold It.

The congregation of rites met at the Vatican recently and unanimously pronounced in favor of the introduction of the cause of the beatification of Joan of Arc. The decision was immediately approved by the pope. Shakespeare's prediction as to the French is therefore in the way of being fulfilled.

Positive Proof

Of Its Power as a Blood Purifier

Hood's Cures the Severest Cases of Scrofula.

No form of scrofula is more dreaded, more tenacious, or more difficult to cure than goitre, or swellings in the neck, often growing to enormous running sores. The fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla cures this severest form of Scrofula, absolutely proves its great merit as a blood purifier. Read this:

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell: Mother has derived such marvelous benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla that she wants me to write about it. A year ago the grip left her with and dreadful faint feelings. Then her neck began to swell and became very unsightly; she could not keep anything on her stomach; she was rapidly running down, and we were very anxious about her. We read of a case of goitre cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, and she decided to try this medicine. Before she had taken one bottle the swelling began to decrease, she continued with the medicine and has continued to improve till she has

We are Not Like Geo. Washington.

WE CAN BUT WE WONT.

Our new spring stock of Wall Paper is here in exceptionally pretty designs, and very cheap, but we haven't 100,000 rolls, and we don't sell it for 2½ cents per roll.

Our new and advanced patterns of Carpets, selected with the greatest care, are now on exhibition. Prices were never so low, but we don't sell them in the newspapers at a lower price than we can buy them.

The fact is, advertising in Middletown is fast becoming a farce the same as it is in the New York papers. But we may just as well get in the swim, so don't be surprised if in a few days we advertise Parlor Suits for $1 and Bedroom Suits for 75 cents. It is a fact that we are nearing that mark, as we are selling a Brocatelle Parlor Suit for $25 and a Solid Oak Bedroom Suit for $17.50

CHAPLAIN WINCHESTER'S CHOWDER

Given in Honor of Phoenix Engine Company—A Royal Feast, Speech Making and a Fine Musical Entertainment—Presentation to the Chaplain.

Yesterday was the fifty-seventh anniversary of the birth of Rev. C. M. Winchester, Chaplain of Phoenix Engine Company, No. 4, and in accordance with his custom, since he has filled that office, he gave a chowder, or more correctly speaking, a banquet to the company by way of celebrating his anniversary.

The banquet was held in the lecture room of the Free Christian Church, a large room, but not large enough to accommodate the crowd, last evening, for in addition to Phoenix Engine Company, there were present the Florida Cornet Band, representatives of the other fire companies and the press and many of Middletown's substantial business men, besides a few from Goshen.

Phoenix Engine Company met at the engine house at 7:30 and, headeded by the Florida band, marched to the church, where many friends had already assembled, and were at once assigned to places at the tables, and the feast began, and it was a feast in the true sense of the word. The menu, which was as follows, speaks for itself and we may add that Mr. Winchester always makes it a point not only to give variety, but an abundance as well:

MENU.

Rhode Island Clam Chowder.
Oysters on Half Shell — Roast Chicken
Boiled Ham — Plymouth Rock Eggs
Baked Beans and Pork
Boston Brown Bread — Winchester Rolls
Sea Biscuit
Pickles — Cheese — O. C. Butter
Orange Cake
Lemon Cake — Angel Cake
Chocolate Cake — Birthday Cake
Cocoanut Cake
Fruit — Coffee — Ice Cream
Sweet Kisses.

After all had satisfied the cravings of their appetites, Mr. C. F. Roper, of Goshen, was called to the platform and sung a song in his usual excellent style and was compelled to respond to an encore with another.

Mr. Winchester then made a brief address, speaking of his gratification at meeting with his company and other friends present, and the pleasure these anniversary chowders gave him.

Mr. N. H. Sanford, of Goshen, was called upon and made a brief speech.

At this point, President Iseman, of Phoenix Engine Company, arose and in a very neat speech, presented the Chaplain, in behalf of the company, with a handsome gold badge bearing the Phoenix emblem and the following inscription on one side:

1893—REV. C. M. WINCHESTER—1894
Chaplain Phoenix Engine Co., No. 4.

On the reverse side was engraved the following:

Presented to Our Chaplain March 20, '94,
by
PHOENIX ENGINE CO., NO 4,
Middletown, N. Y.

Mr. Winchester accepted the gift in a few graceful remarks.

Alderman Sinsabaugh gave a recitation, and brief speeches were made by Capt. Rockwell, of the Electric Railway Company, Ira L. Case, on behalf of Excelsiors, President Hornbeck for Mouhagens, Chief Engineer Thorpe for the Department and Eagles, W. H. Bodine for McQuoids, Frank Pease for Ontarios, G. H. Hirst for the Wallkills, Leader Hunter for the Florida Band, and Leander Brink, who was called upon as a representative business man.

After the speechmaking, the following programme was excellently rendered:

1. "Etude—Mazurka" (Piano Duet).. A. Talexy
Chas. H. Iseman and Ernest T. Winchester
2. Solo (Selected).....Anon
Miss Susie Armstrong
3. "Brutus Over the Death of Lucretia"..... Mr. John Hendrickx.
4. "Infelice" (Italian) from "Ernani"... Verdi
(By request) Mr. Ernest T. Winchester
5. Piano Solo (Selected).....Anon
Mrs. John F. Dusenberry.
6. "The Red Scarf".....Bonheur
Mr. Frank Barnes
7. "The Soldier Song" (sung before Queen Victoria).....Mascheroni
Mr. John Hendrickx.
8. Piano Solo (selected).....
Mrs. John F. Dusenberry
9. "Face Upon the Floor".....Anon
Mr. John Hendrickx

Messrs. Hendrickx and Barnes are fellow pupils with Messrs. C. H. Iseman and Ernest T. Winchester in the National Conservatory of Music in New York. Another pupil, Mr. Ernest Bascot, was down on the programme, but was unable to be present.

Owing to the length of time it took the firemen and others to satisfy their appetites, the time consumed in speechmaking and the length of the programme of the entertainment, it was near midnight when the festivities came to an end.

The Famous Earthquake of Japan in 1891

A description of this most disastrous of earthquakes for the past half a century, will be given by Rev. and Mrs. Stanley in the hour's lecture to-morrow afternoon, March 22, at the First Presbyterian Church. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley experienced some of the severe shocks of that day, though living a hundred miles distant from the center of that awful catastrophe in which ten thousand were killed in the twinkling of an eye, and over forty thousand injured. The lecture begins at 3 o'clock.

WRANGLING OVER A WAIF.

Two Colored Families at Odds for the Possession of a Little Foundling—The Recorder Refused to Interfere.

Application for a warrant for the arrest of Fred. Freeman, a young colored man, on the charge of kidnapping, was made before Recorder Bradner, this morning. The Recorder, after hearing both sides of the story, declined to issue the warrant.

The facts in the case, as nearly as can be ascertained, are as follows:

About a year ago a young colored couple named Harrison, while living in Newark, adopted a year-old foundling from an institution in Jersey City. The child was not healthy and in the hope of bettering its condition by a change of air, Mrs. Harrison sent the child to her mother, a Mrs. Edwards, in this city. Mrs. Edwards after a short time sent word to her daughter that she could no longer care for the child, and was authorized by the daughter to find a boarding place for the little one.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman were willing to take charge of the child, the Harrisons agreeing to pay fifty cents a week for its maintenance. This was eleven months ago and in the meantime, but nine dollars have been paid for its support, the Harrisons paying no attention to the child until they moved back to Middletown, a short time ago. They then demanded the child, but the Freemans, who had become very much attached to the little one, refused to give it up without the payment of the balance due them from its board.

Mr. Freeman was in court this morning and said that the Harrisons had made several attempts to regain possession of the child, and that it was not the money he cared for, but that he was afraid the little one would not have as good a home, or as good treatment with the Harrisons as he would give it, and that as the child was a foundling and he had taken care of it for so long, he was as much entitled to it as the Harrisons.

Freeman has been employed in the tannery several years and is a hard-working, industrious young man.

Having failed to get possession of the child by means of a warrant from the Recorder it is not known what move the Harrisons will next make to secure the little one.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN GOSHEN.

The Corporation Election—Lecture on on the Passion Play—Bob Hunting's Circus Coming—Personal.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

—In view of the fact that there was no contest for any of the offices, except collector, at the corporation election, yesterday, there was a large vote cast, 371 tickets having been voted. Chas. Wright was elected collector over Jas. Scott, Jr., by twenty-nine majority.

—The illustrated lecture at St. John's Hall, last night, by Prof. Turner, on the "Passion Play," was largely attended. The lecture was interesting and instructive and the views were excellent.

—The great and only Bob Hunting's circus will be in Goshen, May 8th.

—John Ketchum went to Brooklyn, this morning, to attend the graduating exercises of the Long Island Medical College. A nephew named Maney, formerly of this village, is a member of the graduating class.

Easter Services—Personal and Local Notes of Interest—A Plea for the Inconsistent.

From a special correspondent.

—The Good Friday services at St. James' Church, will be morning prayer, at 10:30 a. m.; three hours devotion from 12 m., to 3 p. m., and evening prayer, at 7:30 p. m. On Easter Sunday, there will be a celebration of the holy communion, at 7:30 a. m.; morning prayer, at 9.30 a. m.; holy communion at 11 a. m.; children's choral service, at 4 p. m; and evening song, at 7:30 p. m., Tour's mass in F, will be sung at the eleven o'clock service.

—Mrs. and Miss Bacon left last Friday, for St. Augustine, Florida, where they will spend the next six weeks.

—Dr. Pell and family have returned to Brooklyn, where they will make their home during the next three months.

—The household goods of Mr. Frank Wetmore will be offered at auction, next Thursday, preparatory to the removal of the family to New-York, on the first of April.

—The regular rehearsal of the Vocal Society will be omitted this week.

—Dog poisoners visited South street, Monday night, and Mr. William Ludlum's big dog 'Curly" fell a victim.

—The writer has often heard people blamed for that most common of all human failings—inconsistency. If there is anything in the doctrine of heredity, is it at all strange that humanity should be inconsistent? With so many ancestors, it is not at all surprising that we should behave in a great many different ways. Of course we are liable at one time to act like our great grandmother, at another like a more immediate progenitor, or even at times feel the subtle influence of a very remote forbear that causes us to do some unexpected and startling thing. After all the world would not be half so interesting a place if we were all consistent; if we could count with any degree of certainty upon what our neighbor would do upon all occasions, life would lose half its zest. But while we live we must criticise. One great trouble with most of us is that we cannot quite approve of those who are not cut after the same pattern as ourselves. If we are philosophical we can look with condescending tolerance upon those whose thoughts and feelings differ from our own, but if we, in common parlance, "take things hard," we regard our opposites with only half-concealed contempt. So long as the world lasts, Martha, who is "troubled with many cares," will continue to feel a bit hard toward the idle Mary, who is enabled to take life easily and make herself agreeable because of that very quality in her sister's disposition at which she is disposed to cavil, and will always wonder vaguely why Martha worries herself so over trifles.

PROTECTED BY HIS DOGS.

How a Tennessee Moonshiner So Long Evaded Capture by Seven Officers.

The most noted moonshiner in West Virginia and portions of Kentucky and North Carolina, Jere Day, has at last been captured. The government officers have been trying to arrest Day for over 15 years, but failed on every occasion. Day, who is a tall, muscular, shrewd looking fellow, has been running illicit stills for over 15 years. During this time he had sometimes as many as a dozen stills running at one time.

The stills were located in the depths of the primitive forests or in caves in the mountain sides a long distance from roadways and trails. The stills are always located near some prominent height or at a point from which a guard or spy, constantly on the alert, could overlook all approaches and advise his companions of the vicinity of suspicious looking strangers. Time and again revenue officers have attempted to waylay and ambush Day. They found roads and trails over which it was known he would be forced to travel and they then placed squads in ambush, but although Day had been seen or traced along the road he always slipped through their fingers without a scratch.

At last the secret of his success in evading the officers became known. Day had a number of thoroughbred dogs which he had trained to scent out revenue officers or strangers and to notify him of their presence long before they could come in sight. When traveling over the routes or trails leading to and from any of his stills, two of Day's dogs always trotted along in front several hundred yards, taking opposite sides of the road. Two would fall back in the rear, and one would advance like a scout on each side.

In case of an ambuscade the dogs in front would scent the presence of the deputy marshals before they got within a hundred yards of them. They would return quickly to their master and inform him by their actions of the presence of the enemy. Day would then take to the woods to the right or left, with a dog in advance, and pass around an ambuscade without being seen. In case pursuers should come up behind, Day's dogs, which had been trailing along, would quickly hear or scent them and then would hurry forward to their master, who, knowing by their actions how close the enemy was, could easily evade them.—St. Louis Republic.

HE SAVED HIS HAT.

But In Doing So He Came Near Sliding Off the Niagara Ice Mountain.

Two well known traveling passenger agents had an exciting time here the other day. John E. Burke of the Louisville and Nashville and William Kelly, Jr., of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul were in the city on business. In company with Local Passenger Agent B. B. Dennison of the New York Central they visited the ice bridge. The party climbed the ice mountain, and while on the brink Burke's hat was blown off and began to roll down the ice on the side of the mountain toward the American falls.

Burke, without thinking of his danger, dropped down on his stomach to lean over and secure the hat. He began to slip down the side of the ice mountain toward the whirling water and certain death. He shouted, "Help me!"

And Kelly, leaning over, caught his foot. The ice was slippery, and Kelly lost his footing, and he, too, began to slip.

Dennison, who is a big, powerful man, grabbed Kelly's legs, and thus the three men formed a loop over the top of the mountain. Burke shouted, "For God's sake, boys, don't let go!" Dennison managed to get Kelly over to his side of the mountain, and then they pulled Burke up. He brought his hat with him.—Niagara Falls Cor. New York World.

Professor Horsley's Discovery.

Not only the medical world, but the laity also, have been highly interested by the evidence adduced by Professor Horsley in a lecture the other day, proving that prehistoric man in the stone age frequently performed the dangerous and delicate operation of trepanning. He had found 60 skulls in collections of these relics on which the operation had undoubtedly been performed. In one case it had been done by drilling a series of small holes probably with a bone implement and then breaking small partitions and so releasing a piece of bone. Another operation seems to have been performed with a flint saw. A third method was scraping. This discovery is the most important proof yet discovered of the high intelligence of the unrecorded races.—London News.

Voice Restored by Sudden Grief.

The shock of her husband's sudden death a few nights ago caused Mrs. George S. Roberts to regain her voice, which she lost from bronchial trouble over nine years ago. Mr. Roberts died of heart disease after an illness of but a few moments. The wife cried aloud in her sorrow, and to her surprise and that of her daughter her voice sounded clear and strong. Since her attack she had not spoken above a whisper. The voice she suddenly regained seems destined to remain, for she is now conversing freely and clearly with her friends.—Baltimore American.

Carnegie's English Residence.

Buckhurst park, Earl Delaware's place in Sussex, which Andrew Carnegie has taken for the season, is a charming spot near the south coast, only an hour by rail from London. The house, although modern, has many associations of antiquity. It stands in the midst of beautifully timbered grounds, and the vast park is stocked with red deer. Mr. Carnegie will probably find the estate a pleasant change from his usual retreat in the fastnesses of Scotland. He may prolong his stay if he finds the new quarters to his taste.—London Standard.

A RETIRED BUSINESS WOMAN.

A Page From Her History.

The important experiences of others are interesting. The following is no exception: She had been troubled with heart disease 25 years, much of that time very seriously. For five years I was treated by one physician continuously. I was in business, but obliged to retire on account of my health. A physician told my friends that I could not live a month. My feet and limbs were badly swollen, and I was indeed in a serious condition when a gentleman directed my attention to Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and said that his sister, who had been afflicted with heart disease, had been cured by the remedy, and was as well and strong, healthy woman. I purchased a bottle of the Heart Cure, and in less than an hour after taking the first dose I could feel a decided improvement in the circulation of my blood. When I had taken three doses I could move my ankles, something I had not done for months, and my limbs had been swollen so that they seemed almost putrified. Before I had taken one bottle of the New Heart Cure the swelling had all gone down, and I was so much better that I did my own work. On my recommendation six others are using this valuable remedy."—Mrs. Morgan, 39 Harrison St., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, a discovery of an eminent specialist in heart disease, is sold by druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent by Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for express prepaid. It is positively free from all opiates or dangerous drugs.

"ADAMANT" WALL PLASTER!

The New, Cheap Substitute for Common Plaster.

It is very hard and very adhesive; it does away with the warping and shrinkage of doors and casings, and the building is not saturated with water, as it necessarily must be when common plaster is used; it costs originally but little more than lime plaster, and in the end its superior qualities make it immeasurably cheaper; it saves waiting several weeks or months for the buildings to dry out; it does not crack or fall off, even in the case of leakage; it is applied easily by any good plasterer; it is the only material with which repairing can be done neatly and to stay.

DANA'S SARSAPARILLA THE KIND THAT CURES

Rev. A. J. DAY, East Greenbush, N. Y.

SCROFULA AND ECZEMA

A WONDERFUL CURE | A MINISTER'S TESTIMONY

I wish to extol the virtues of DANA'S SARSAPARILLA. Mrs. Day's health was unusually good up to the age of 40. At this time scrofula taint manifested itself in form of Eczema. We had used a variety of remedies, with but little good result, but DANA'S SARSAPARILLA proved so effective that I must say it is a grand combination of remedial agents.

My son was also troubled with Eczema, his arms, from hands to elbows, being one solid mass of scabs. He has also been cured by the use of DANA'S SARSAPARILLA.

A TRUE FISH STORY.

It Is a Connecticut Product and Relates to a Lost Bracelet and an Eel.

Savillian Beebe of this place made a big haul with a seine a few days ago. Last July among the people who sojourned at Essex was a wealthy Cincinnati family. A young lady member of this family went out boat riding one evening, and during the trip she lost a valuable bracelet from her arm.

The bracelet was the kind of a gold chain that fastened with a hook. The young lady was very much distressed over the loss of the ornament, and she offered a reward of $20 for its recovery. Fishermen searched the river bottom for it in vain.

A few days ago Beebe, who usually makes about two fishing trips to the Connecticut river during the winter, hitched up his horse and drove down. The ice was rather thin on the old fishing ground, and Beebe was advised to go about a mile up the river to Brockway's bend. Here the ice was soft, and Beebe began work. He worked all day like a beaver and succeeded in getting but one very small eel.

The next morning he decided to have fried eel for breakfast anyhow. He took the eel down from the nail on the side of the house, where he had hung it the night before. It was frozen as stiff as a marline spike, but he took it out into the woodshed, and in less than a minute he had its side off.

He then ran his knife into the eel's throat and shoved it toward its tail. When about half way down, the point of the knife struck something that refused to be cut in two. He slashed into the eel's middle. To his astonishment, a long metal chain, as bright as if new, lay lengthwise of the stomach.

He showed the chain to his wife. Mrs. Beebe took the thing and examined it. On the end of the clasp the name of the young woman who lost the bracelet last summer was engraved. The circumstances of the lost bracelet were known to the people of Saybin, and after breakfast Savillian hitched up his horse and headed for Essex, where he delivered the bracelet to the people with whom the Cincinnati family boarded and received the $20 reward.—Salem (Conn.) PEACEABLE SNAKE INDIANS.

Young Chief Delivers an Eloquent Address Replete With Love for the Whites.

A delegation of Snake Indians visited the red men of the Umatilla reservation recently. When they started for home, Young Chief delivered the following eloquent farewell address to his visitors:

"We part to-night. Not as had we in days gone by was between us. Now there is love. Once war; now peace. Once we swung the tomahawk and aimed the deadly rifle at each other's hearts. Now the pipe of peace we smoke to-night, and the past is buried and forgot. In other ways it is different. Then we was a race who sought the whites. But we have all put aside the implements of war and cultivate the arts of peace. Our fathers swore eternal vengeance on the pale faces. This was because of the tradition handed us by them of an invasion of trappers and traders who ruined not the Indian's life. They went to the sea and found their friends at Astoria by the great water and left some to mourn their Indian dead. But we live side by side with him now, and from the rising to the setting sun we know no foe for whom we would put on the warpaint and ride forth to return with scalps hanging at our belts. Our ponies no more carry us to bloody attack. We own the great father at Washington as our great chief. Him we obey. The past is forgotten. Major Jim, go to your people and say Young Chief sends them peace and good will."—Portland Oregonian.

MEDALS FOR BRAVERY.

King Oscar Sends Rewards to Two Gallant American Seamen.

F. K. Borden of 520 South Front street, formerly chief officer of the bark S. G. Bowart, was presented last week through the Swedish and Norwegian consul with the King Oscar medal of the second class for his gallantry in saving the crew of the Norwegian bark Anunda of Christiania. Captain W. J. Larsen. Seaman Patrick Mulvaney, who volunteered to row Mr. Borden off to the waterlogged wreck, received a medal of the third class from King Oscar.

The Bowart fell in with the Anunda off the coast in February, 1893. The latter was in a sinking condition, and although a heavy sea was running and it was hazardous to launch a boat even Mr. Borden volunteered to try to rescue the crew. Seaman Mulvaney offered to go with him, and the two managed to get alongside the derelict and took off Captain Larsen, his officers and crew. The shipwrecked men had given up all hopes when the Bowart hove in sight, and even then thought the sea too heavy for a rescue. The medals are of silver, with the head of King Oscar on one side, on the other the name with the motto "For humanity" in Norwegian.—Philadelphia Times.

Royal Flapdoodle.

The United States representative for the first time took his place in the highest rank this week at the royal social functions. Mr. Bayard stood last but one in the small group of embassadors that flanked the Prince of Wales at the queen's levee. The prince on formal occasions like this is no less strict than the queen herself in all matters of etiquette. He prescribes even the smallest details of dress. Americans who wear ordinary evening dress at levees were notified recently to wear white studs and plain white gloves instead of with black braid. His royal highness is quick to detect the slightest irregularity. He noticed some fault in the uniform of a British army officer presented on Monday and embarrassed the man beyond measure by remarking in a low tone when greeting him, "Nothing like that," indicating his meaning by a slight gesture.—Cor. New York Sun.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

BROKEN OFF.

How Puppkins and His True Love Were Torn Asunder.

"You may as well take back your congratulations, old man, for the engagement is broken off," said Puppkins yesterday over in a corner at the Pharynus club.

"Broken off!" exclaimed his friend Noodles, astonished.

"Yes, I assure you. It is destined that I am to remain a bachelor, for the present, at all events. The idea has its consolations but I could have wished to withdraw from the threshold of matrimony somewhat more gracefully, perhaps."

"Miss Gid"——

"Giddings is her name. She has given me the cold shake, my dear fellow."

"Has a rival"——

"No. It was no rival, so far as I am aware. There was no romance in the business. It was just plain, ordinary squash pie."

"Squash pie!" echoed Noodles. "How—what can pie, particularly squash pie, have to do with a love affair?"

"Much, in this instance," said Puppkins with increased gloom. "It squashed me."

"Pray explain."

"Well," began Puppkins, settling back in his chair and lighting a cigar, "I'll tell you all about it. There is a little coterie of New England men in Baltimore which calls itself the 'Pilgrim Fathers.' I am—or rather was—a member of it, being, as you know, from Massachusetts. It dines once a month on corned beef and cabbage, baked beans and squash pie. Other edibles are furnished, but nothing that is not distinctly a Yankee dish."

"I see," said Noodles.

"I am, or rather was, a member of this exclusive organization. The last dinner was just 10 days ago. I went to it after passing the afternoon with Flora—that is to say, Miss Giddings, who is spending the winter in Baltimore. With the repast several kinds of wine were served as usual—the patriots not limiting themselves to New England vintages—and it is possible that I may have taken a trifle too much. There is no doubt whatever that the man who sat directly opposite me at the table—his name is Perkins—became offensively intoxicated."

"Perkins?" said Noodles. "Philadelphia man, isn't he?"

"No. He is from Connecticut. That is why he was invited, being supposed to be a connoisseur in pies."

"Oh, of course!"

"Well, continued Puppkins, "to make a long story short, Perkins and I came to words. He insulted me—I don't exactly remember how—and I threw a glass of wine across the table into his face. He responded by picking up two large and very ripe squash pies, which happened to be conveniently within reach, and letting me have them where he thought they would do the most good. I have since learned that Perkins is pitcher in an amateur baseball nine of some local celebrity."

"The deuce!"

"One of the pies—I believe I said they were very large and thick—hit me square in the face, while the other struck me flat in the middle of my dress shirt—that is to say. I ascertained these facts after a bit, being so totally blinded by the first missile that I did not at once understand what had happened. After my face had been washed with the contents of a finger bowl and wiped with napkins, I was able to give the assistance to two or three of the fellows who started in to scrape me off with table knives."

"And Perkins?"

"Oh, he had vanished in the confusion. But why proceed with the painful details? You know what happens when a soft body, acting as a projectile and moving at a high rate of speed, strikes a hard obstacle. It scatters. That is what happened to those pies for which I served as a target. There was not a square inch of my person in front that was not covered with semiliquid squash. My hair was full of it. My pockets were found to contain considerable quantities of it. Some of it made its way down my neck, and I eventually discovered a small portion of it in each of my shoes."

"Horrible! But what has all this got to do with the breaking of your engagement?"

"Everything. I was expelled from the Pilgrim Fathers on the ground that I had been the aggressor in the squash pie episode, having thrown wine in Perkins' face. Miss Giddings learned this receiving also a full and highly humorous account of the affair. She wrote me that she could never marry a man who was capable of figuring in so ridiculous and discreditable a performance return—at the same time my letters and rings. The latter is a consolation for I consider it worth a hundred dollars, and I may pawn it when I am hard up just at present."—Washington Star.

CITY OF MIDDLETOWN.

In the matter of opening and laying out a new street from the southerly line of East Main street, through the lands of Smith, Jeannot and Stansbury, in the city of Middletown, Orange county, New York, to the northerly line of Sprague avenue.

Whereas, The Common Council of the city of Middletown, at a regular meeting of said Common Council, held at the Common Council or Corporation Rooms, in the city of Middletown, Orange County, N. Y., on the 4th day of January, 1894, upon their own motion, by virtue of the power and an authority vested in said Common Council, pursuant to, and by virtue of an act of the Legislature of the State of New York, entitled "An act to incorporate the city of Middletown," approved by the Governor, June 9, 1888, and the acts amendatory thereof, and pursuant to section 7 of title 6 of said act as amended, did determine by an order then made, to open and lay out such new street, as shown on a map and survey thereof, made by Charles H. Smith, Civil Engineer, dated November 30, 1893, and filed in the City Clerk's office January 4, 1894; and to take and appropriate the lands and premises necessary therefor; which street so to be opened, is bounded, laid out and described as follows:

Beginning at an iron rod driven into the ground in the southerly line of East Main street, said rod being in the division line between the lands of Mrs. Edwin B. Hanford and Mrs. Jacob F. Smith, and situated south eighty degrees west 6.55 feet from the northwesterly corner of the brick store building now owned by John T. Robertson and runs thence (1) south 10 degrees east 379.84 feet to an iron rod driven into the ground; thence (2) south 26 degrees, 10 minutes east 171.7 feet to an iron rod driven into the ground in the northerly line of Sprague avenue; thence (3) north 69 degrees 3 minutes east 50.1 feet measured along the northerly line of Sprague avenue to an iron rod driven into the ground; thence (4) north 26 degrees 10 minutes west 161.3 feet to an iron rod driven into the ground in the division line between the lands of W. K. Stansbury and Mrs. A. T. Jeannot; thence (5) north 10 degrees west 372.74 feet to an iron rod driven into the ground in the southerly line of East Main street; thence (6) south 80 degrees west 50 feet measured along the southerly line of the said East Main street to the place of beginning. Being a strip of land of the uniform width of fifty feet extending from the southerly line of East Main street to the northerly line of Sprague avenue containing 0.6503+ acres of land, then being 0.17,217 acres of the lands of Mrs. Jacob F. Smith, 0.2752 acres of land of the lands of Mrs. A. R. Jeannot, 0.20279 acres of the lands of W. K. Stansbury; and, whereas, pursuant to notice duly given and published, as required by law, the said Common Council did apply heretofore to the County Court of Orange county, for the appointment of three disinterested freeholders as Commissioners to estimate and assess the expense of said improvement, the value of each parcel of land taken for the same, and the damages sustained by any person or persons by reason of such improvement, and the amount to be allowed each person respectively, and also to ascertain and determine what real estate will be benefited by such improvement, and to apportion and assess the entire cost of such improvement, with the expense thereof, upon the several parcels of land benefitted thereby in proportion as near as may be, to the benefit resulting to each, and, whereas, W. H. Hirschberg, R. J. Coleman and George W. Murray were, by order of said Court, granted February 12th, 1894, duly appointed such Commissioners; and, whereas, said R. C. Coleman and George W. Murray have declined to serve as such Commissioners; now therefore,

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that said Common Council, of the city of Middletown, will apply to the County Court of the county of Orange, at a term thereof to be held at the Court House, in the village of Goshen, Orange county, New York, on TUESDAY, the TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY OF MARCH, 1894, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, for the appointment of two disinterested freeholders, as Commissioners for the purposes above named to act in the place of said R. C. Coleman and George W. Murray so declining to serve.

By the Common Council.

A. J. HORNBECK, President of said Common Council.

E. M. HAMILTON, Clerk.

Dated city of Middletown, N. Y., March 7, 1894.

WM. B. McDOWELL,

successor to Rogers & Mc[illegible] Middletown

THE People of the State of New York to Delo Williams and Sturgis Williams, residing at Derwent, Fremont county, Iowa, brothers of deceased, Nelson T. Williams, Kate F. Williams and Lizzie B. Williams, all residing at Danby, Tompkins county, N. Y., and Walter Williams, residing at Bingham Lake, Cottonwood county, Minnesota, all children of a half brother of deceased, Homer J. Lowrey, 196 Michigan avenue, Chicago, Ill., Ernst Lowrey, Room 121 Boston Block, Denver, Colorado, Ed. D. Lowrey, Harned, Pawnee county, Kansas, Helen Lowrey Gray, 158 Garfield avenue, Kansas City, Missouri, all children of a deceased half sister of the said deceased and to all persons whomsoever who are or who claim to be interested in the estate of Clara Williams Hitchcock, late of the city of Middletown, in the county of Orange, deceased, send greeting:

You and each of you are hereby cited personally to be and appear before our Surrogate at his office in Goshen, in said county, on the 24th day of April, 1894, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, to attend the judicial settlement of the account of Francis M. Barnes, administrator of the goods, chattels and credits of the said deceased.

And that if any of the persons interested be under the age of twenty one years they are required to appear by their guardian, if they have one, or if they have none, that they appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of their neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for them in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof, we have caused the seal of office of our said Surrogate's Court to be hereunto affixed. Witness, Hon. Roswell C. Coleman, Surrogate of our said county of Orange, at Goshen, in said county, the 23d day of February A. D., 1894.

[L. S.] R. C. COLEMAN, Surrogate.

SHOTS HERE AND THERE.

AN "ARGUS" MAN OFF DUTY AIMS AT SEVERAL SUBJECTS.

Fire Escapes on School Buildings—Will Not Have the Law Less Stringent—Taking Chances at Wallkill Academy—Unconscious Humor at a Coroner's Inquest.

Gov. Flower vetoed, Monday, Assembly bill, No. 265, which amended the act of 1892, which required the erection of fire escapes on all school buildings in the State which are over two stories in height. The law of 1890 is mandatory and gives boards of education and trustees no discretion in the premises, but makes them personally responsible for a failure to comply with its requirements. The vetoed amendment proposed to permit school officers to refer to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction the question as to whether fire escapes were necessary or not.

In his veto the Governor says:

In my judgment this responsibility should not be placed upon the Superintendent of Public Instruction. If any discretion is to be allowed to public officers in such a matter it should be conferred on the local trustees or boards of education. But it is questionable whether such a law should ever be permissive in its terms. It involves the safety of human lives, and its purpose was undoubtedly to compel compliance with what was thought to be a necessary legal safeguard against neglect or undue penuriousness on the part of local authorities.

This matter is of local interest because of the fact that Wallkill Academy is a three-story building, and had the law of 1890 been complied with should have been provided with fire escapes three years ago. I do not know of a school building anywhere which would afford children fewer opportunities of escape in case of fire than our academy building. The only means of exit from the upper floors are the stairways in the central hall and if a fire started in the lower hall, there would be the worst kind of a panic and the chances are that many pupils would be injured and that lives would be sacrificed; and yet "neglect or undue penuriousness on the part of local authorities" has permitted the danger to continue and the law in regard to fire escapes has been contemptuously ignored. Such things may be all right so long as nothing happens, but it's a case of "reaping to the whirlwind" if any catastrophe occurs.

One doesn't look for humor in the testimony taken at coroners' inquests, but at Troy, yesterday, the investigation of the election day murder was relieved by the unconscious humor of two Troy toughs, who told a story of the killing of Robert Ross, directly at variance with that of a score of more reputable witnesses, in such picturesquely original language, that those who heard them forgot for a time the tragedy that was under investigation, in wonder at the jargon they used and at their ability to use it in the graphic description of incidents that are believed to have no existence except in their own imaginations.

The first witness, one Jerry Cleary, heard twelve or fifteen shots fired in the fight at the polls, but was sure there was only one revolver in the crowd and that was in the hands of John H. Boland. When asked if all the witnesses who had testified that Shea shot Ross were mistaken, he answered "cert.," and explained that he left the polls immediately after the shooting for fear he might get "hurted." The next, Tom Keefe, declared with a leer that he was a "Prohibitionist," and liked to see a fair election as well as any one. He had heard that the town was full of repeaters and went to the polls to see if any one was voting who had not a right to. He saw Boland with a "gun" and saw him fire three or four shots and then ran up to him and said "For God's sake don't shoot no more," whereupon, to quote his own words, "Boland pointed de gun at me head and snapped it, but it didn't go off. He said nothing, but I tell you he looked just ferocious. Just like one of dem pictures you see on plug tobacker."

Meeting of District Grand Committees of Odd Fellows.

The District Grand Committees of Odd Fellows of this county held their meetings to-day, the first district in Warwick, the second in Port Jervis, and the third or German district in Newburgh.

Middletown Lodge is represented in Port Jervis by Past Grands E. B. Quick, C. E. Sharpe, Daniel Taylor, Angus Terwilliger, Robert Lawrence, E. I. Townsend and James Fisher.

Esther Lodge is represented at Newburgh by eleven of its Past Grands whose names we were unable to learn.

THE OFFICE OF SANITARY INSPECTOR

A Useless Sinecure—The City Paying $250 a Year to an Inspector Who Don't Inspect.

Now that the Board of Health has been made a complete body by the appointment of two new members, it becomes the duty of that body to abolish the office of Sanitary Inspector.

It is an outrage upon the taxpayers of Middletown that they should be compelled to pay out $250 per year merely as a reward for political services and get nothing in return.

The first appointment of a Sanitary Inspector was made on the recommendation of Dr. Struble when he was Health Officer, the understanding then being that a practical plumber should be appointed and employed when his services were needed and be paid only for the actual services rendered. It was not a great while until the office of Sanitary Inspector became a salaried one, and for the past year or two, the only duty performed by that official has been to draw his salary.

One of the effects of the abolition of the office of Sanitary Inspector will be to lessen, in some degree, the strife for appointment of members of the Board of Health, for then the only plums left to fight for will be the appointments of Health Officer and Registrar, and it will be possible to get good men, who are competent and have the time to devote to the duties to serve on the Board.

ONLY $2 A YEAR.

For the Semi-Weekly Mercury and Weekly World.

The most valuable paper that comes to this office is the New York World. Fearless and independent, working at all times for the best interests of the people, and never for the selfish ends of any ring or individual, supporting the right and condemning the wrong wherever found, it becomes a great power for good throughout the land. Its policy is defined by its well-known motto: "Equal Rights to All, Special Favors to None." The reputation of the Weekly World as an incomparable newspaper is fully established. It reaches for the very best and fullest news of the entire country, and gets it. The celebrated "Tariff Mule" articles are again running in their weekly and are creating widespread attention. Its miscellaneous pages are replete with articles of valuable and interesting information to every one. It is a large 12 page, 8-column paper for only $1 a year. We have succeeded in making special arrangements by which we can furnish the MERCURY and the Weekly World one year both for only $2. Address

WHAT OUR NEIGHBORS IN SULLIVAN COUNTY ARE DOING.

All the News from All Parts of the County—Many Matters of Interest Condensed from Our Sullivan Exchanges and Contributed by Wide-Awake Correspondents.

—Liberty has just organized an Art Club, the object of which is to promote a more lively interest in art and to purchase common studies, literature, etc.

—Liberty people do not take hold of the electric light project in a very hearty manner. Only forty-eight shares were subscribed for at a public meeting held in the interest of the scheme. The citizens were expected to take $8,000 of the stock.

—Sufficient subscriptions were secured in Liberty, Saturday, to insure the putting in of a telephone system in that village and vicinity. The capital of the company has been fixed at $5,000, but only $3,000 will be required at present. The wires will run to all the large boarding houses near the village, to the Mountain House and as far as Chas. Gregory's place. Mr. Vassar, the projector of the enterprise, says that the line will be completed and in operation by May 15th next. The instruments will be rented for $30 per year and it is claimed that from thirty five to forty instruments will be placed from the start. As soon as the company is organized it is probable that they will purchase of C. A. Sprague and John Kilbourne, the Commercial Annex Telegraph lines, which run from Liberty to White Sulphur Springs, Youngsville, Jeffersonville, Stevensville and White Lake. They also have a wire on the Postal Telegraph Co.'s poles from White Lake to Monticello.

A COMMON QUESTION.

WHERE MAY WOMEN GO FOR HELP?

How Many American Women Have Asked This Question of Themselves.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

You may call it dangerous modesty if you will. It is in woman's heart, and is part of woman's nature. She shrinks from telling her physical troubles to men.

During the past 20 years thousands of women throughout the world have written in womanly confidence to Lydia E. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and laid bare the life of misery they endured.

They wrote freely, knowing that their letters went direct to the hands of a woman who not alone understood their sufferings but whose heart was full of sympathy with them. The experience of thousands has proved how carefully their letters were studied, and how true and sure came the answer and helpfulness.

You may be suffering daily when you need not. You can tell the story of your pain to a woman, and get the help that only a woman can give.

A young lady from Boston writes to a friend, saying:—

"They said I was consumptive, sent me away, told me to keep quiet, no excitement, no tennis. Just think of it!

One day I found a little book called 'Guide to Health,' by Lydia E. Pinkham. In it I found out what ailed me, so I wrote to her: got a lovely reply. She told me just what to do, and I am in splendid health now."

The same assistance is waiting for you. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has relieved more female suffering than any other medicine in the world.
